SIGMA CHI TO BE ON NATIONAL TELEVISION

Sigma Chi was approached about 12 months ago by a production company which produces a series entitled "Behind the Scenes with James Earl Jones." The production company indicated it found Sigma Chi's focus on leadership and character development to be refreshingly distinct from what is commonly associated with modern fraternity life. As such, they wanted to produce a short segment about the value we bring to the lives of the men who join and, by extension, the communities with which we come into contact. The Sigma Chi Executive Committee and the Education and Leadership Board discussed the merits of the proposal and decided to go forward with a partnership. Filming and production ensued, and the final products have now been scheduled for release.

We are excited to announce that the first scheduled release will be a one-minute segment that will run tonight, April 13 across the United States on Fox Business Network at approximately 10:28 p.m. EDT, 9:28 p.m. CDT, 8:28 p.m. MDT and 7:28 p.m. PDT. This same segment will then be played regionally in the top 100 markets in the United States throughout the next two weeks during primetime on channels such as CNBC, CNN, CNN Headline News, Family Channel, Fox News and MSNBC. Subsequently, the full eight-minute video will be released to public broadcasting stations across the country for consumption by viewers in up to 300 different markets. If you cannot wait to catch the video on public broadcasting stations, you can watch the full-length video on our website now.

Sigma Chi is a leader in its efforts to provide unique leadership and character development opportunities to men of all ages. There has never been a time when our society needs the value we can provide more so than it does today, and we are proud to be at the forefront of this critical field of work. Thank you for your support and advocacy of Sigma Chi in whatever way you can provide it.
